FLYIN: A FREE, VANILLA JS POPUP SCRIPT RELEASED

Licensed under MIT license, full featured, modern TypeScript and Vite based script

Niš, Serbia, July 17, 2026. Dev4Press announced the release of the brand new JavaScript popup script called Flyin. The new project is written in TypeScript and SASS for styling, with Vite build tool. Flyin is loosely based on the old Smart Animated Popup script, until recently, available on CodeCanyon. Flyin is available under MIT license.

Flyin website features documentation and wide range of examples

Flyin has been developed as in house solution for popups, and while it started as a rewrite of existing code base, it has gone further with the use of TypeScript and SASS, with no dependencies, accessibility support, using Vite powered build system, including tests and more.

Flyin will be available in the DebugPress plugin for WordPress, where it will replace Smart Animated Popup script.

Project Documentation & Download Resources:

The production code, complete guides, and operational examples are available immediately on the official pages at dev4press.github.io/flyin/ and via the open-source repository at github.com/dev4press/flyin.
